Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 31 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold and dry, with wintry hazards into next week.

Today:
A sunny and frosty start with cloud gradually building from the west through the morning, turning the sunshine hazy. Becoming breezy near the coast and generally cloudier going into the afternoon, but remaining dry. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Tonight:
Winds will ease through the evening and night, but still a little breezy along the coast. Otherwise a fine night; dry with clear periods, leading to widespread frosts. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Monday:
Another bright start on Monday, but with cloud increasing from the west as the day draws on. Patchy light rain and snow developing during the afternoon, and winds strengthen later. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Unsettled on Tuesday with coastal gales and outbreaks of rain and snow, giving ice in places. Becoming drier and brighter with lighter winds on Wednesday. Further rain and snow Thursday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.